

PONTIAC DAILY LEADER

---

Tammen brothers' service honored

By Lois Westermeyer

Posted Nov 11, 2010 at 12:01 AM

Updated Nov 11, 2010 at 10:14 AM

Three Flanagan brothers, like thousands of young men from Illinois at the time, signed up to serve their country during World War II. However, only one of the brothers returned home. Losing two sons in the war would have been devastating enough for the Hank and Dena Tammen family, but they received word on the death of their two sons just three days apart in April 1945.

Three Flanagan brothers, like thousands of young men from Illinois at the time, signed up to serve their country during World War II. However, only one of the brothers returned home.

Losing two sons in the war would have been devastating enough for the Hank and Dena Tammen family, but they received word on the death of their two sons just three days apart in April 1945.

For the remainder of this story check out the E-edition or pick up a copy of The Daily Leader.

For the E-edition just click on the E-edition link.